Bibliography

Essential Titles on Chinese history:

General titles and reference works

CHC    The Cambridge History of China    see respective volumes

CHAC   The Cambridge History of Ancient China    see

Titles on pre-imperial history (chapters 1-2)

Boltz, William G. “Language and Writing.” In CHAC (pp. 74-123).

Short and legible lectures on the Xia, Shang and Zhou, based on archaeology and classical texts.

great show of kingley power over the wild, combining power, peril and the representation of the king as the civilizing force vanquishing wild animals, strong dichotomy between the tamed and the wild environment, strong symbolic connotation of the person of the kind in his chariot and the wild beasts.

Harper, Donald (1999). “Warring States Natural Philosophy and Occult Thought.” In CHAC (pp. 813-884).

Hsu; Cho-yun (1999). “The Spring and Autumn period.” In CHAC (pp. 545-586).

For a fascinating interpretation of the shifts of Shang cities within a network of control over crucial metal and salt resources, see state monopoly on the procurement of these key resources that required a high degree of organization, copper, tin and lead in particular; identifies a one-way, hierarchical and kin-based power structure radiating out from the center (capital) to the lesser cities.

Very stimulating comparative study, though somewhat narrow for China due to the fact that the author does not read Chinese.

Titles on the Qin and Han periods (chapter 3)

Huan K’uan, Discourses on salt and iron: A debate on state control of commerce and industry in ancient China, chapters I-XIX. Translated from the Chinese of Huan K’uan, with introduction and notes, by Esson M. Gale. Repr. Taipei: Cheng-wen, 1967.

Twichett, Denis and Michael Loewe, eds. (1986). The Cambridge History of China. Vol 1: The Ch’in

Titles on the Sui and early to high Tang periods (Chapter 5)

Beijing: Zhongguo shehui chubanshe.

Titles on the Tang to Song periods (Chapters 6-7)

Schottenhammer, Angela, ed. (2001). The emporium of the world: maritime Quanzhou, 1000-1400. Leiden ; Boston : Brill. (Sinica Leidensia 49)

Titles on the Yuan period (chapter 8)

Titles on the Ming and Qing periods (chapters 9-10)

Chen Xuewen (2000). MingQing shiqi Taihu liuyu de shangpin jingji yu shichang wangluo 明清时期太湖流域的商品经济与市场网络 (Commercial economy and market networks of the Taihu region in the Ming and Qing periods). Hangzhou: Zhejiang renmin chubanshe.

Chen Xuewen 陈学文 (1997). Ming-Qing shiqi shangyeshu ji shangren shu zhi yanjiu 明清时期商业书及商人书之研究 (Studies on merchants and merchant handbooks of the Ming-Qing period). Taibei: Hongye wenhua shiyue (Guoxue jingcui 46).

Na Zhiliang 那志良 (1993). Qingming shanghetu 青明上河圖 (Going up the river on Qingming festival). 2nd Ed. Taipei: Gugong guoli bowuguan.

Osborne, Anne (1994). "The local politics of land reclamation in the Lower Yangzi highlands." In Late Imperial China 15/1: 1-46.

Schneider Axel and Susanne Weigelin-Schwiedrzik, eds. (1996). Chinese Historiography in Comparative Perspective. Middletown: Wesleyan University. (History and theory ; studies in the philosophy of history 35.4)

Serruys, Henry (1975). Sino-Mongol Relations During the Ming: Trade Relations: the Horse Fairs (1400-1600). Bruxelles : Institut Belge des Hautes Etudes Chinoises. (Melanges Chinois et Boudhiques ; 17)

Tao Dechen 陶德臣 (2002). "Lun Qingdai chaye maoyi de shehui yingxiang 论清代茶叶贸易的社会影响 (The effects of the tea trade on Qing society)." Shixue yuekan 5: 90-95.

Titles on the late Qing period (chapter 11)

Janku, Andrea (forthcoming). “Heaven-Sent Disasters in Late Imperial China: The Scope of the State and Beyond.” In Christian Pfister and Christoph Mauch, eds. Natural Hazards: Cultural Responses in Global perspective.

Titles on the Republican period (chapter 12)

Titles on mainland China since 1949 (chapter 13)

